Dear Ms. White:

Pursuant to House Rule 25, clause 5(d)(2), the Committee on Ethics hereby approves your proposed trip to Baltimore, Maryland, scheduled for November 30, 2018, sponsored by the American Youth Policy Forum.

You must complete an Employee Post-Travel Disclosure Form (which your employing Member must also sign) and file it, together with a Sponsor Post-Travel Disclosure Form completed by the trip sponsor, with the Clerk of the House within 15 days after your return from travel. As part of that filing, you are also required to attach a copy of this letter and both the Traveler and Primary Trip Sponsor Forms (including attachments) you previously submitted to the Committee in seeking pre-approval for this trip. If you are required to file an annual Financial Disclosure Statement, you must also report all travel expenses totaling more than $390 from a single source on the "Travel" schedule of your annual Financial Disclosure Statement covering this calendar year. Finally, Travel Regulation § 404(d) also requires you to keep a copy of all request forms and supporting information provided to the Committee for three subsequent Congresses from the date of travel.

If you have any further questions, please contact the Committee's Office of Advice and Education at extension 5-7103.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Susan W. Brooks". The signature is fluid and cursive.

From Diversion to Reentry: How Community-Based Programs Support Federal and State Policies for Systems-Involved Youth

An AYPF Study Tour
Friday, November 30, 2018
9:00am-4:00pm

Dear Krista:

We are excited to invite you to participate in our From Diversion to Reentry: How Community-Based Programs Support Federal and State Policies study tour in Baltimore, Maryland on Friday, November 30, 2018 from 9:00am-4:00pm. Federal initiatives, such as Promise Zones and the newly implemented Opportunity Zones are examples of federal and local collaborations to transform low-income and under resourced communities. During this study tour, we will conduct site visits to Living Classrooms and The Choice Program at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC), two nationally recognized programs that are improving outcomes for systems-involved youth through a range of holistic supports that include diversion and prevention; restorative practices; family engagement; intensive case management; afterschool programs; education support and job training.

Goals of this study tour include:

- Highlighting successful and effective programs that are holistically supporting youth involved or at-risk of entering the juvenile justice and foster care systems through the use of diversion and reentry supports.
- Engaging with and learning from program staff and youth about their experiences as a recipient and administrator of services.
- Gaining a better understanding of how community-based best practices can help inform the implementation of federal and state policies.

This is an invitation-only event and space is limited. Please, register using the link below. The deadline to register and submit your ethics paperwork is Wednesday, October 31, 2018. Attached please find the agenda as well as all necessary ethics paper work.

This learning opportunity is being organized for Congressional staff and therefore intends to comply with Ethics Rules. AYPF will pay for ground transportation and meals during the study tour.

Sincerely,

Betsy Brand
Executive Director

From Diversion to Reentry: How Community-Based Programs Support Federal and State Policies for Systems-Involved Youth

An AYPF Study Tour
Washington, DC
November 30, 2018
9:00am-4:00pm

Young people involved in the foster care and juvenile justice systems often face significant challenges during multiple stages of their education and career journey. As a result, only 51 percent of youth in foster care graduate high school and nearly 2 percent will complete college. For youth involved in the juvenile justice system, only about 12 percent will graduate high school (or obtain a GED). Title I, Part D of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), provides funding to states to establish or improve educational programs for neglected or delinquent youth, or those who may be at risk of involvement in the justice system. There are also new provisions to improve education within juvenile justice facilities and promote successful reentry for youth who are returning to their schools and communities after incarceration. For youth at-risk of entering foster care, the Family First Prevention Services Act allows states to now access funding for prevention services without removing youth from their homes, which includes substance use, mental health and family wraparound supports to stabilize families that are likely to enter the child welfare system. The role that community-based programs play in helping to execute successful programs for systems-involved youth is extremely critical. Federal initiatives, such as Promise Zones and the newly implemented Opportunity Zones are examples of federal and local collaborations to transform low-income and under resourced communities.

We will bring together a group of bipartisan congressional staff with expertise in child welfare, juvenile justice, education, and workforce to tour and learn about Living Classrooms Target Investment Zone and The Choice Program at University of Maryland, Baltimore County. Both programs have been nationally recognized for improving outcomes for systems-involved youth through a range of holistic supports that include diversion and prevention; restorative practices; family engagement; intensive case management; afterschool programs; and job training.

Goals of this study tour include:

- Highlighting successful and effective programs that are holistically supporting youth involved or at-risk of entering the juvenile justice and foster care systems through the use of diversion and reentry supports.
- Engaging with and learning from program staff and youth about their experiences as a recipient and administrator of services.

- Gaining a better understanding of how community-based best practices can help inform the implementation of federal and state policies.

Agenda

Friday, November 30th

- 9:00am Board Bus for Living Classrooms
Bus will pick up participants at location on Capitol Hill. The drive should take about an hour and an half. AYPF staff will provide an overview of the agenda and will frame the day's events.

- 11:00am-11:04am Note: 4 minute walk to Fresh Start Program
- 11:05am-12:00pm Site Visit #1: Fresh Start Program
802 South Caroline Street
Baltimore, MD 21231
- Fresh Start is a 40-week job skills training program that serves out-of-school youth, ages 16-19, most of whom are referred by the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services. The program uses carpentry as a medium to teach reading, writing, math, history, and science. Youth also receive classroom instruction and one-on-one tutoring. The curriculum is designed to increase self-reliance, teach problem solving and academic skills, and demonstrate how academic skills and knowledge are used in a practical work environment. Students increase their math, reading, and writing levels by an average of 1.5 grade levels while in the program. 75-80% of graduates remain employed and/or in school for three years after completion of the program.
- 12:00pm-12:08pm Note: 8 minute walk from Fresh Start to Community Center
- 12:08pm-12:45pm Site Visit #2: POWER House Community Center
316 S. Caroline Street
Baltimore, MD 21231

POWER House community center is located directly in Baltimore's largest public housing community, Perkins Homes. POWER is an acronym for Providing, Opportunities, to Work, Expand, and Rise. Year-round out-of-school time programming provides services in five core areas: Education and Career Development, Character and Civic Development, Health and Life Skills, The Arts and Cultural Enrichment, and Health and Wellness. In addition, the POWER House offers financial literacy, English as a Second Language, GED preparatory classes, and job training courses for adults weekly. POWER House's Teen Club, serves high school students, providing them with academic support and enrichment activities to meet the program's goals of increased academic achievement and graduation rates, readiness for higher education, and improved behavior and attitudes toward learning.

University of Baltimore's John and Frances Angelos Law Center
1401 N. Charles St.
Baltimore, MD 21201

The Choice DSS Foster Care Diversion Program provides intervention services to families who are at risk of entering the foster care system. The program serves youth ages 13-17 in Baltimore City, and their families. Families are referred from the Department of Social Services (DSS). The program offers voluntary services aimed to prevent out of home placement of youth and preservation of the family unit through intensive mediation and informal counseling, family centered activities, and connections to key support services in the community. Program services include job readiness and employment development, assistance in navigating school and court systems, 24/7 crisis intervention, and case management.

2:50pm-3:20pm What's Next for Baltimore? Implementing Phase Three of the Cross-Over Youth Practice Model (CYPM)
Shay Bilchik, Director, Center for Juvenile Justice Reform
Macon Stewart, Senior Program Manager, Center for Juvenile Justice Reform

After touring and learning about community-based programs in Baltimore that are serving systems-involved youth, participants will now have the opportunity to tie this work to broader, complementary policies and practices that are being implemented throughout Maryland. Since 2010, the CYPM has improved the lives of crossover youth in over 100 counties in 21 states, in addition to the new Maryland sites. CYPM has been implemented in Montgomery and Prince George's Counties. Due to its success, DHS and DJS will take a three-phase approach to spreading the model to eight new counties by 2019. Phase Three will support Baltimore City and County. Additionally, a state-level policy team has been created to address policy, practice, and data issues while supporting the county-based implementation.

3:20pm-3:50pm Key Takeaways and Reflections

3:50pm-4:00pm Participants will board the bus and return to Capitol Hill
